

Quality Policy

Most value for the money:

We want the customers to see us as a company that strives to improve the quality throughout the entire organization and give the "most value" for the money. This postulates that we deliver a product quality that meets the demands of customer- and government requirements, in right time and right numbers.

Zero fault thinking and quality through:

- Responsibility for the customer demands
- Responsibility and commitment of coworkers
- A well-functioning quality management system
- Competence development

Continuous improvements:

Through continuous improvements we develop our product quality, our processes and routines and thereby improve the competitiveness.

Rade Paunovic
MD